FEVER AND AGUE, from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe. is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the intersion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestiv violence. This is the CHILL. But in this effort it fails.—
Then the Fever tollows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort His Commission for selling Cotton will be 50 cents per to expel the irritating poison through that other great exbale, no additional charge will be made. Such con- sell. stitutional disorder will of course undermine the nealth if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote, AYER'S AGUE CURE, which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. The Emperor's Letter to the Pope.

January 26th, 1860-22-tds.

The official journal of Rome states that the sentiments contained in the letter of the Emperor of the French to the Pope are not acceptable to his Holiness, who refuses to cede the provinces in rebellion. The belief is, that in consequence of this decision the Emperor will order his troops to leave Rome, and it is stated in a letter from Paris that the Pope has been advised to leave at the same time, and take up his temporary residence at Benevento, in the States of the Church, environed by the Neapolitan territory. Another and a later version of the state of the dispute between the Pope and the Emperor, is to the effect that the protest of the former against the pamphlet has been brought from Rome by the Nuncio's secretary, and that, unless there is a disavowal of the pamphlet, the Emperor will be requested to withdraw his troops immediately from Rome. It is added that this course was decided upon in the Council of Cardinals, and that some of the members of the Sacred College, who had dissented from the policy of Cardinal Antonelli, were reconciled to him. The following is the letter of the Emperor:

Most Holy Father-The letter which your Holiness deigned to write me on the 2d of December, touched me deeply, and I will reply with entire frankness to the ap-ZA. IRRITATION, SORENESS, or any affection peal made to my good faith.

One of my most serious anxieties during, as well as after the war, was the condition of the States of the BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, or Church; and, assuredly, among the potent reasons which induced me to conclude reace so promptly, you must reckon the fear of seeing the revolution assume daily increasing dimensions. Facts have an inexorable logic; and, despite my devotion to the Holy See, despite the presence of my troops at Rome, I could not avoid a certain amount of connection with the result of the national movement caused in Italy by the struggle against Aus-

> As soon as peace was concluded, I hastened to write to your Holiness to submit to you the views which I considered best to lead to the pacification of your Holiness had from that time consented to an administrative separation of those Provinces, and to the nomination of a lay Governor, they would have returned to your rule. Unhappily, this was not the case, and I found myself powerless to prevent the establishment of the new Government. My endeavors only succeeded in preventing a spread of the insurrection, and the resignation of Garibaldi preserved the Marches of Ancona from certain invasion.

Now the Congress is about to assemble, the Powers cannot disown the incontestable right of the Holy See to the Legations; nevertheless, it is probable that they will not be of opinion that you should have recourse to Meals, as they may be ordered in the spacious Refectory. force to subject them. For, if that subjection were obtained by the aid of foreign troops, it would imply the military occupation of the Legations for a long time.-This occupation would keep alive the hatreds and resentments of a great portion of the Italian people, as also the jealousy of the Great Powers; this would be, then, What remains, then, to be done, for this state of un-

I am sure your Holiness will not misconstrue the sentiments which animate me. You will understand the difficulty of my position; you will give a kind interpretation to my frank language, remembering all that I have already done for the Catholic religion and for its august Head. I have expressed without reserve my full mind, and I thought it indispensable to do so before the Congress.-

NAPOLEON.

Palace of the Tuileries, Dec. 31, 1859. A MARVELOUS NARRATIVE .- A frightful story, reminding one of the fabulous history of the three Spaniards, is told in a paper published at Colema, Mexico. When Gen. Pueblita entered the town of Ayo, in September last, he exacted a forced loan from the people, and a share of it fell upon the curate of the place. A party of men went to his dwelling and knocked at the door; there was no answer, and they broke in. They found no one in the house, and were about to leave it when they heard a frightful voice proceeding from the ground, saying "I am heagry." After a careful examination, they found a moveable stone in the floor, and under this was a stairway leading down to a vault, which was entirely dark, and had no connection with the air save by the staircase and a hole that served as a ventilator. In this vault were some books, a few articles of furture, and a woman, who had been shut up there for eighteen years. She was taken to Gen. Peublita's quarters .-When brought into the light she fainted. After she had returned to her senser, a thousand questions were asked of her, to which she replied only that she had been buried in that vault for eighteen years without going out for a mohusband, but she knew nothing of their fate; that while imprisoned in the vault she had had children by the curate, but she knew nothing of what had become of these children, SNUFF AND TOBACCO MANUFACTURER, but she knew nothing of what had become of the short. While this was passing, a sergeant of the Peublita Brigade, then present, discovered that this woman was his mother, and The husband, fifteen years ago, was imprisoned three years under the charge of having murdered his wife, this woman. A SINGULAR CASE .- The illness of Theodore Rougeot, Copenhagen, who died in Rome, N. Y., on the 24th ult., says the Utica Telegraph, was the most singular we ever heard of. When thirteen years of age he was taken with inflammatory rheumatism, and was almost helpless for two years : he then recovered, but in two years thereafter he was attacked again, and continued entirely helpless and confined to his bed for eighteen years. There was but one joint (that of one thumb) that he could move .-He was obliged to be bolstered up in bed in one position, partly in a sitting posture, for the eighteen years ; he N. B .- Note the new article of Fresh Scotch Snuff, which could talk and read well, but could not otherwise stir or move; his food was made very fine and sucked up or mumbled over in his mouth as his jaws were immoveable; he was nothing but skin and bone, yet his appetite and general health were good. His mind was clear, his memory good, and he was a person of considerable intelligence, and quite a reader.

> EDITORIAL FATALITY .- Speaking of the death of Mr. Roy, late editor of the Vicksburg Sun, the Concordia Intelligencer says: This sad event makes the fourth Democratic editor that has come to a violent death in Vicksburg. Hagan,

> Ryan, Jenkins and now Roy-and all in a street encounter, except Ryan-who fell in a duel with Hammet a whig oditor. There cannot be cited another city in the world, where there has been such a fatality of violence all confined to editors of one and the same political

The largest African boa constrictor ever captured alive and brought to this country, arrived in a vessel at Boston a week or two since. He measures forty feet in length, twenty inches in circumference, and weighs four hundred and seventy-three pounds. He is capable of taking at one meal, a full grown sheep.

But I beg of your Holiness, whatever decision you may come to, to believe that it will in no respect change the profound veneration. I am of your Holiness, your devoted son,
